

CITY GOVERNMENT COST $2,000 A WEEK

Disbursements During the Past Year Were $97,238.71, According to Clerk Johnson's Report.

RECEIPTS WERE $102,288.62

Maintenance of Street Department Cost $21,046.11—Police Protection Cost $3,957.25.

That the city government cost approximately $2,000 a week during the past year, is shown by the annual report which was filed today by City Clerk Albert Johnson. The disbursements during the last twelve months were $97,238.71 while the receipts were $102,288.62. According to the statement there was a balance of $5,049.91 in the treasury on January 1. Taxes were the biggest source of income during the year amounting to $45,956.80. The report shows that the street department cost $21,046.11 which was the most expensive department of the local government. Notes amounting to $34,000 were redeemed during the period. Water and light cost approximately $17,000 while the city officials were paid $4,444.69 for their services. $908.77 was expended on the city park during the year and $1,898.62 went into the library fund. Police protection cost $3,957.25 and the maintenance of the fire department represented $3,533.10. The report is as follows: Bal. on hand Jan. 1, 1915, $ 4,964.20 RECEIPTS. Liquor Licenses 7,500.00 Int. on deposits 102.10 Miscellaneous receipts .. 42,119.60 Taxes collected 45,956.80 (Continued on page 4, column 4.)

DOUGLASS IS DEFENDANT IN ENGINEER'S CASE

Court Allows City to Withdraw After Amount Involved is Paid Into Court.

On motion of City Attorney Albert H. Kasting, Judge Swails in circuit court today ordered the substitution of the name of E. B. Douglass for the City of Seymour in the case recently filed by W. H. Rights, to determine the legal status of the engineer's squabble. This action was taken with the consent of the parties involved. The city attorney paid into court the amount in dispute and asked that the city be withdrawn from the case as it was not involved. The court after hearing the petition granted the request. This action means that the matter will be thrashed out between the contestants for the office. Douglass contends that he cannot be summarily dismissed from office while Rights insists that the mayor has the power to dismiss any of the appointments he makes.

J. H. HADLEY, COLUMBUS MAN COMMITTED SUICIDE TODAY

Body Found in Basement of His Home About Noon—Despondent Over Ill Health.

J. H. Hadley, sixty-one years old, retired, committed suicide by hanging about noon today at his home in Columbus. He was known in this city. Despondency because of ill health is assigned as the reason for the deed. Mr. Hadley and his wife had planned to go to Florida for the winter but recently decided to postpone the trip because of his condition. About 11 o'clock today he succeeded in getting Mrs. Hadley to leave the house and after her departure he went into the basement and hanged himself. The body was found a short time later. He was prominent in Columbus and was a brother-in-law of Jessie Newsom and Miss Vida Newsom. The later was today elected vice-president of the Legislative Council of Indiana Women. This is the third suicide that has been committed in and around Columbus during the last few days. To that number is added one attempt, a young man having swallowed carbolic acid last night while standing at the interurban station.

MOTOR CARS MUST SHOW NEW PLATES

Law Requires License Number to be Exhibited on all Machines After January 1.

MANY APPLICATIONS FILED

No Arrests for Violation of Law Have Occurred Here But Officers Are Empowered.

Owners of automobiles and motorcycles who use their machines during the winter months or expect to have them in readiness for the first warm days of spring are filing applications with the secretary of state for license tags for 1916. Owners are reminded that the license tags issued in 1915 expired January 1 and that it is unlawful to operate a car on a highway without exhibiting a license number for this year. The new tags for 1916 are entirely different from those previously issued.

In order to secure a license plate it is necessary to file the application that is distributed from the office of the secretary of state. The requirements are the same as last year. The number of the automobile, the number of the engine, the make, model and various other specifications must be stated. The charge for the plate depends upon the horsepower of the motor. Applications must be sworn to before a notary public. Most of the notaries have application forms on file.

Hundreds of licenses have been issued by the secretary of state for this year and the demand will be heavy within a few weeks. There is no deduction from the year's charge unless the license is purchased after August 1 and as most machine owners use their cars early in the spring they find it convenient to secure the plates in ample time. The police in several places are

COLD WAVE BRINGS THE RECORD LOW TEMPERATURE

Government Thermometer Drops to 15 Degrees Above Zero—High Water Receding.

After several days of moderate temperature King Winter suddenly jumped into the center of the stage Wednesday night and brought with him the coldest weather of the present season. The government thermometer in charge of J. Thomas Hays, official weather observer, registered fifteen degrees above zero. This is just one degree lower than has been recorded during the winter. The cold wave was very noticeable on account of the unusual spring temperature just preceding it.

The cold wave, it is said, is a part of the general winter storm that is sweeping a wide area in the northern and northwestern parts of the United States. The central states were in the edge of the cold wave district as the storm came to the eastward.

The drop in temperature in this section of the state put an end to the series of rains which had caused the rivers and streams to overflow during the past few days. Locally the streams are receding rapidly today. As early as Wednesday afternoon the water in White River at Rockford was reported to be falling and today the river is again in its banks. The water has disappeared from the low places in the roads and traffic has been resumed.

JURY UNABLE TO AGREE IS DISMISSED BY JUDGE

No Decision is Given in Action by Cincinnati Firm Against Dry Goods Man.

The jury hearing the case of the Cincinnati Cloak and Suit House against Ben Simons, on account, was unable to agree, and this afternoon was dismissed by Judge Swails. It is said that the jurors stood six to six throughout the balloting. The jurors retired late Wednesday afternoon after the instructions were read. The defense in this case was that the goods purchased from the Cincinnati concern were not as represented and that the defendant had to replace them with other goods to his customers.

"Vaudeville Lew" Asserts Acting Has Few Worries

"I like the stage because it has fewer worries than politics," today declared Lew Shank, "vaudeville" star and erstwhile mayor of Indianapolis while he was waiting at the local B. & O. Southwestern passenger station for a westbound train to carry him to Washington where he will appear tonight in a comedy sketch. Shank admitted that the sketch was to be a "farce." He is a member of an independent company under the management of Carleton Guy. Shank said he liked the one night stands better than week stands as the "jumps" were shorter and not so tiresome.

"Do I like the stage better than politics? Well I should say I do. There are fewer worries but at that I didn't get it like the fellow that is mayor of Indianapolis now. Gosh! they're certainly putting the 'bud' to him. He catches it if he closes 'em up and he catches it if he don't."

"But there is something about politics," continued the vaudeville man, "that makes a man want to get back in the fight. I had a good time when I was mayor of Indianapolis and I am going to get into the race again next year. So many of the boys up there have told me that I have a chance that I too am thinking that I have. I've got a lot of friends in Indianapolis who will give me their support."

Shank is having the time of his life before the footlights. He contracted with a vaudeville company immediately after his retirement as mayor. He didn't know then whether or not he would like the stage but his "line of talk" made a hit and he has been an "actor" for three years. This season he contracted with an independent company and is making one night stands. He has traveled from coast to coast and says that he likes the life.

DECISION OF COURT ENDS CONTROVERSY

Local Political Leaders Read with Interest the Interpretation of the Primary Law.

SECTION TEN IS HELD VALID

Candidates not Required to Pay Fees Before Running for Nomination, Court Holds.

Local political leaders today have given careful study to the opinion of the Indiana supreme court concerning the new direct primary law which was handed down Wednesday. Candidates and politicians have been anxiously awaiting this decision for without the legal interpretation they were undecided as to what course to take. The case was brought before the high court on appeal. Carl H. Mote, a former progressive, questioned the constitutionality of section 10 on the grounds that a neighbor was threatening to challenge his vote when he votes at the Republican primary. The court held that this section meant that only a member of the party in question could challenge the vote of another voter of the same party. A voter in one party is not empowered to challenge the vote of anyone belonging to the opposite party.

The lower court held that section 13 which provided that candidates shall pay the fees before making the race for nomination was unconstitutional and the supreme court upheld this opinion.

Because of the general interest in the primary law and the effect the new decision will have on it a portion of the decision is republished:

"It is claimed that Section 10 of the act violates said Section 13 of Article II of our Constitution. Both Kelso and Mote assume that any qualified legal voter of the precinct, regardless of party, may challenge

Witness Tells that Thirty-six Quarts of Beer were Consumed by Four People.

Indianapolis, January 6.—Four men at a noon party in Newcastle, Ind., drank thirty-six quarts of beer, according to the testimony today of Dr. Coons, the family physician of James Rohde. The doctor was one of the four, he said. His testimony came in the civil suit of Hugh E. Hogan, who alleges that while under the influences of Mrs. Rhode he signed a deed giving her property in Indianapolis worth $10,000. Mrs. Rhode was a sister of Hogan's wife and the exchange of property was made for $1, according to Hogan.

LENGTHY NOTE IS LEFT BY SUICIDE

George Barringer Asks that His Sweetheart at Freetown be Notified of His Death.

MESSAGES ON CARDBOARD

Young Man Living Near Azalia Took His Own Life Without Assigning Definite Reason.

The funeral of George Barringer, the young man who committed suicide at the home of his parents near Azalia Tuesday morning, were held at the Elizabethtown Methodist church at 2 o'clock this afternoon, conducted by Rev. De Hart, of Elizabethtown. Burial will be made in the Springer cemetery near that place.

Regarding the case the Columbus Republican says:

Although the unfortunate young man left a lengthy note written on two separate pieces of card board in which he mentioned a sweetheart and other significant things, the family has advanced no satisfactory reason why he should have inflicted death upon himself. At one place in the note the young man mentioned that the "wages of sin is death and we all have our time."

The young man committed the deed while he was left at the home alone for a short time. The father, Charles Barringer, was away from the house at work and the mother was near the old house a short distance away where she was engaged at the family washing. The family had recently moved into the new house, which is not yet completed, and the well which the family uses is still near the old house.

It is believed that the mother almost caught her son in the rash act as she returned to the new house at one time during the morning and found her son with the shotgun in his hands. She merely believed that he was getting ready to go hunting and admonished him to be careful with the gun. She then returned to her washing and when she returned again to the house about 11 o'clock she found her son dead on the floor in the dining room. The charge from the gun had entered his abdomen on the left side of the body and had torn away a part of the spinal column.

IN DAYTON O. HOSPITAL

Mrs. F. J. Compson Undergoes Operation on Her Right Arm.

Word was received here today from the Rev. F. J. Compson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, that Mrs. Compson is in a hospital at Dayton, O., to undergo an operation on her right arm. The nature of the operation was not stated, but it is not believed to be serious. The Rev. Mr. Compson and Mrs. Compson went to Dayton this week for a visit with friends. The minister stated that he expects to return here for the usual Sunday services at his church.

BERT DICKEY HELD ON THEFT CHARGE

Sullivan County Man Arrested for Alleged Theft of Cash From Coal Mine Paymaster.

ROBBERY AT LINTON LAST FALL

Dickey, Arrested on Description, Said to Have Spent $6,000 of Money at Exposition.

By United Press. Evansville, January 6.—Detectives arrested Bert Dickey, 27, of Sullivan county, here today. He is charged with having made away with $6,000 of the $8,000 which was taken from the paymaster of the Lattas Greek Coal Mine near Linton, Ind., at the point of a gun last October.

The arrest was made on description. Dickey is said by the police to have made a complete confession. He was taken to Terre Haute at noon today.

Chief of Police Schmitt said Dickey told him that his "pal" saw a hold-up man named Davey hide the booty in an old jug in the Davey home at Ziegler, Ill., and later carry the jug to a woodshed. Dickey and his pal, he said, took the money and spent all but four dollars of it at the Panama Exposition.

BIG FRENCH STEAMER OUT RACES SUBMARINE

Karnak Chased All Night in Mediterranean by a Submersible—Passengers Hysterical.

By United Press. Marseilles, January 6.—The French steamer Karnak carrying 250 passengers was chased all night in the Mediterranean by a big submarine, but eluded the submersible and arrived here today. She brought survivors of the British steamers Middleton and Abelia, submarine victims.

The submarine abandoned the chase at dawn today. When the Karnak put in many of the passengers were hysterical from fright.

"The submarine sighted us at about dusk last night," said one of the Karnak officers. "The captain ordered full steam ahead and we raced for it through a heavy storm, our bow splitting big waves."

VOLUNTARY TRAINING IS PET PLAN OF GARRISON

Secretary of War Says This is Necessary if Conscription is to be Avoided.

By United Press. Washington, January 6.—American must adopt voluntary military training or face conscription. This was Secretary of War Garrison's warning today when he opened the army national defense hearing before the house military committee. He declared a large standing army undesirable and "utterly futile." He asserted reliance upon the state militia "utterly unwarranted" as "an unstable foundation."

His continental army plan, Garrison said, was the only feasible alternative if compulsory military training and conscription of service is to be avoided.

SWEDEN WISHES TO SEE GERMANY WIN

Believes That Her Own Safety Depends Upon the Success of the German Campaign.

MAY FIGHT FOR THE KAISER

Sweedn is Not Particularly Pro-German or Pro-Ally But is Strongly Anti-Russian.

(By Charles P. Steward, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Copenhagen, January 6.—Sweden does not intend to let Germany lose the European war, even if she is forced to make war herself as Germany's ally.

Sweden may not insist upon an out and out German victory, but she feels that she cannot for her own safety allow the Russians to beat Germany. She is not particularly pro-German or pro-Ally but she is anti-Russian with her whole soul.

Sweden will fight with Germany before she will see Russia win. She believes her strength will be the deciding factor in the last resort. This was the outstanding fact in the Scandinavian situation as outlined to the United Press today.

WOMAN'S PAGE

"Watching the Corners" is the Big Problem of Housewives

The housewife, who is her own cook and manager has in many respects the advantage over the woman with a number of servants. Of course, it is not always pleasant to do all one's work, but except for that one point she has things all her own way. Any little economies she wishes to practice can be put into effect without opposition. She does her own buying and knows just what she is getting and what every article costs. In doing the cooking she knows just how much of her provisions are being used for the preparation of each meal.

The only trouble is that when a woman of no experience undertakes to run her home she is often at a loss as to how to do so without aid. Particularly when she has had no experience in cooking does she find it hard. She may follow the cook book recipes religiously but even there she meets with stumbling blocks, for often instead of making the preparation of a dish easier she finds her own ideas even more confused than ever by the use of many incomprehensible French terms in the wording of the recipe. When she reads that she should serve some soup with croutons, she shakes her head dazedly. Just what a ragout is is rather beyond her comprehension and even au gratin brings but a hazy glimmer of light to her bewildered mind.

Au gratin is used when a dish has crumbs or cheese grated over the top and it is usually served at table in the same pan in which it has been baked. When you see that a dish is to be braised, you may know that it means to cover it closely with vegetables and herbs and cook with a lid on. Croutades are little baskets of friend bread, in which stewed or minced meat is to be served. A canelon of meat is a piece stuffed and rolled. Appetizers spread on small round bits of toast are called canapes and dice of dried bread browned in fat or in a hot oven and served in soups come under the fancy name of croutons.

You probably have heard the term piece de resistance used as applied to music or art. Well, in the culinary art it means the principal dish of the meal. Aspic is jelly, made with meat stock. Vegetables and meat often have it inserted while the aspic is hot and liquid and then the dish is allowed to stand until the liquid aspic hardens to jelly form. If you run across a description of soup in which it is called a maigier soup do not be alarmed, for it simply means a soup prepared without meat. Potage on the contrary is only applied to a thick soup.

You will find the term ramekins applied both to a cheese dish and to the dishes in which they are cooked. Cheese souffles served in a paper or china cases are called ramekins and as a result the china dishes, in which the souffles are baked, have come to be known under the name of ramekins. Glaze, you will find, is nothing more or less than stock, reduced by boiling to a stiff jelly, while petits fours are nothing more formidable than little cakes. When you season a stew or a hash very highly and serve it with many vegetables, you may disguise it under the name of a ragout. Sauté means that you must fry the object brown in just a little fat. Rissoles are bits of pastry, which are filled with minced meat or fish, rolled together and then fried.

There are hundreds of such terms which the young housewife will come across constantly in her cook book, but these are the most common. A small French dictionary will help her greatly if her cook book is given to these fancy terms.

Every inexperienced housewife should make a list of household 'dons' if she wishes to economize in her home. A society made up for the practice of thrift in the home has compiled such a list and it holds many valuable suggestions. They call this list "thrift don'ts" and the young housewife should model her list along similar lines, adding to it as experience teaches her new things she should not do. For example, a few don'ts on the thrift society's paper are: Don't telephone for groceries unless you specify as to quality and price; don't run into debt for necessities, cash buying is always wiser; don't forget that peace of mind is better than things you cannot afford.

Other helpful don'ts are as follows: Don't buy small quantities of staples, buy in bulk. Don't cook too much merely to fill your garbage pail. Don't buy vegetables out of season and expect low prices. Don't be ashamed to save your pennies; otherwise you will never save your dollars.

MARGARET MASON'S FASHION LETTER

(Written for the United Press.)

The new combs are enough to go to anybody's head, so gorgeous and effective are they.

One shop is offering a barbaric model dubbed Mandarin and in the forms of crescents, pagodas and other oriental symbols they are elaborately carved and set with semi-precious stones in vivid hues. These combs are either two, three or four pronged and fit into the new high coiffure most artistically.

Other striking combs of brilliant set in silverite, a metal which is sworn not to tarnish, set off midnight or ruddy tresses to great advantage. Lucky the maid who has fallen heir to an old Spanish comb for her hair. It's an heirloom to be enthusiastic about, with its spreading fan back of tortoise shell, mellow toned and exquisitely hand carved. The combination of such a comb, thrust at an angle into a high knot of dusky hair is irresistible. Then there are the glistening, high backed combs of jet, the exclusive hair adornment of the blond beauty; and in exact contrast, the lovely hand carved ivory combs for her of the ebony tresses. Vieing with the combs, artificial flowers bloom on many a head. Wreaths of tiny rosebuds encircle coquettishly the high knot of curls drawn up on top of the head in Victorian manner. A single perfect rose catches the elfish ringlets dangling in front of each rosy ear in another revised antique coiffure and garlands of mixed flora now usurp the temples which erstwhile the Greek, Classic or Castle, (as you will) band bound. Chaste chaplets of leaves in natural green or gold or silver are fitting embellishments of the demure, parted-in-the-middle 1850 hair dressing now so much in vogue. The San Francisco Fair, with its adjacent Chinatown, undoubtedly gave birth to the penchant for Chinese pins of bone, vermilion tinted or jade green, which bristle like the fretful porcupine out of many of the hard little knots of hair on the napes of the debutantes. They are quite murderous looking as they jut out of their long and slender points at all precarious angles. Quite in a class as a killing fashion are they with the jeweled dagger pins Lucille loves to thrust through her mannikins' hair. But then, it is only meet that hair adornments should also be hair arising.

Handkerchiefs in Colors.

Among the decidedly novel ideas in colored handkerchiefs is the use of a colored center with a solid black hem, says the Dry Goods Economist. This type of handkerchief was originally designed to serve in the place of a mourning handkerchief, which many women are averse to using.

Original effects in colors are also a strong feature of the monogram handkerchiefs especially designed for the exclusive trade. Usually the monogram is composed of two colors, cleverly arranged so as to blend with the colored border, cord or hem decoration.

Small Room Wall Covering.

When a bedroom or small dressing room is papered with anything but a plain or neutral paper, bright colored or flowered chintz should never be used, but often a little color is needed to add tone to the room. In a case of this kind one of the new bedspreads which are so pretty and easily made is just the thing to give the necessary color. Select a plain white spread of good quality and rather heavy.

Cut from chintz a bunch of roses or a spray of gay colored flowers and baste one in each corner, with a larger one for the center. Sew to the spread and finish the raw edges with a fine feather stitch or with a long and short buttonhole stitch.

This idea can be carried out for scarfs to cover the dressing table and bureau. Make the scarf of linen cut to fit the top of each and finish the edges with a scallop or a hem and finish this with the stitch that was used on the spread. Cut out the flowers and applique to the edges of the scarf. Bunches of the same flowers can be added to the corners of the white curtains with good effect.

Baby Week.

Grace Julian Clark writes to Indiana women about Baby Week: "It is time to remind Indiana club-women again that March 4-11 is baby week in the United States. More than 400 communities, representing every state in the union, are already laying plans for this important event, according to a letter received from the Children's Home in Washington, and of course this must include quite a number of Indiana cities and towns, for surely nowhere else are the fathers and mothers and the people generally more alert and eager to save the lives of these embryo citizens. The General Federation of Woman's Clubs has never done anything more worthy than its undertaking to forward this effort of the Federal Children's Bureau, and it is confidently believed that baby week will go far to awaken every American to his responsibility for the deaths of the 300,000 babies who, according to the census estimates, die every year before they are twelve months old. The Children's Bureau has prepared a special bulletin of practical suggestions for baby week campaigns adapted to the varying needs of communities of different types. Copies of this bulletin may be had free of charge from the Children's Bureau at Washington."

Directions for Transferring.

Lay a piece of impression paper face down upon the material. Place the newspaper pattern in position over this and with a hard, sharp pencil firmly trace each line.

If the material is sheer, this may be laid over the pattern and the design drawn direct on the goods, as it will show through. When handled in this way impression paper, of course, will not be required.

Little Ministers of Vanity

Someone whose occupation, or business, is the thinking up of pretty things must have turned her attention recently to artificial flowers. For these cunning copies of nature's beauty-wonders are compelling attention everywhere because they are used in new and unusual ways. We are used to seeing them in corsage bouquets and replacing natural flowers in the limousine. We are familiar with them in girdles about the waist and in wreaths about the hair, but these are only mere beginnings of their usefulness as it has been lately developed.

Everywhere little blossoms nestle in bows and rosettes of malines or lace, ornamenting collars and cuffs. They dangle, in place of ribbons, in hanging sprays from the girdle. They are perched in bright sprays on the party or the shopping bag, and they adorn the pin cushion, the perfume bottle and the powder puff.

A small bouquet set in a frill of gauze and suspended by narrow ribbons that are tied about the wrist is the latest adjunct but one of the party gown. And that one is the spray of flowers which finishes an adorable anklet of malines that is tied above the slipper to fly with the feet of the youthful dancer. Only one ankle is allowed this final touch of color and coquetry.

The corsage bouquet and the flowers for the limousine have other business in hand besides their important mission of beauty. They are determined to be useful as well as ornamental. A bouquet for the limousine is shown in the picture, made of two orchids and many sprays of lifelike lilies of the valley. In the heart of one orchid, concealed by flower petals, is a tiny box of compact powder and the other dares to harbor in this secret way a box of rouge. Flower petals cover the small powder puff that slips in each box and the noticeable little ring that is the handle of the puff is covered with silk floss.

The stems of the flowers are tied with a bow of ribbon matching one of the shades in the orchids in color. One ribbon loop is sewed up along the edges to form a case for a tiny mirror. Look twice in the heart of the newest corsage rose and the chances are that you will find it harboring the same sort of first aids to cupid.

White Silk and Woolen Weaves in Favor

For the woman of not more than average weight or height there are no better materials to choose for an afternoon frock than white silk or white woolen of soft, supple weave.

The woman of more than average proportions selects white, in any fabric, only at the risk of accentuating her size—which statement is equally applicable to any vivid or conspicuous color.

No one can claim for white that it is inconspicuous. No one could ever hope to wear a white frock at an afternoon affair without having it the object of more than usual attention. But the woman whose size permits her to wear white need not fear the nature of such attention, providing—and here is the more important point—providing she has her frock fashioned along simple lines of unobtrusive modeling.

The only occasion when a white, fluffy, furbelowed costume is in good taste is at the semi-formal or formal evening function. In the afternoon a white frock never errs in by evidencing a fondness for simplicity.

If one desires a wood fabric for the development of a white afternoon costume there is chiffon broadcloth as a first choice and after it comes not end of other soft, pliable weaves. Gabardine, wool velours in one of the many light-weight weaves, French serge, silk and wool poplin readily suggest themselves.

In silk there is nothing more fascinating than white soiree. It is supple and yet has sufficient dressing to lend itself happily to the fashioning of the frock of simple construction. Then there is white taffeta, peculiarly suited to the fitted bodice, flared skirt mode in costume architecture. Faille is a good choice. The prevailing vogue of satin places it well forward in the list.

White soiree is the material employed in the making of the afternoon costume illustrated. It would be difficult to imagine a happier marriage of chic and simplicity than here presented.

The appeal of the bodice rests almost entirely in the novel modeling. Turquoise enamel buttons, in square shapes, and a trimming touch to the yoke line, and turquoise panne velvet faces the standing collar.

The buttons are used again in the trimming of the skirt yoke, and there is another glimpse of color in the abbreviated girdle of turquoise and gold brocade.

New Oatmeal Recipes.

TO MAKE OATMEAL CAKES.

Put one cupful of fine oatmeal into a basin, add one-half teaspoonful of salt, melt one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan and pour into it one-fourth cupful of boiling water. Mix enough of this butter and water into the oatmeal to make a stiff paste. Turn out onto a baking board, roll it out very thinly, using oatmeal instead of flour to prevent it from sticking, cut it out in large rounds, cut these across twice to make into triangles. Bake on hot griddle and when hard put them in the oven or in front of the fire to make them crisp. Keep in airtight tins.

OATMEAL FRITTER RECIPE.

Make a batter by mixing three-fourths of a cupful of flour with the yolks of three eggs, adding one cupful of milk gradually until a smooth batter is obtained. Stir into the batter one tablespoonful of sugar, grated nutmeg to taste and three tablespoonfuls of cold cooked oatmeal and beat until smooth. Beat up the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and add them; drop the mixture by spoonfuls into smoking hot fat and fry a light brown. Drain and serve hot, sprinkled with sugar.

OATMEAL BISCUITS.

Put three-fourths of a pound of fine oatmeal into a basin, add one cupful of flour, one tablespoonful of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Rub in one-fourth cupful of butter, then form the mixture into a paste with two well-beaten eggs. Add a little milk if not moist enough, but the drier they are mixed the crisper the wafers. Cut into rounds and bake for fifteen minutes. Serve with cheese.

Uses of Cocoa.

COCOA ANGEL CAKE.

Ingredients—Whites of five eggs, one-half teaspoon of cream of tartar, one cup of sugar, one-half cup of pure cocoa, one-half cup of flour, one teaspoon of vanilla. Sift the flour and cocoa together four times. Beat the whites of the eggs till frothy, add the cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Beat in the sugar and flour; add the vanilla. Bake in an angel-cake pan, about thirty minutes. Cover with pure cocoa or royal icing.

COCOA DOMINOS.

Use one and one-half cups of sugar, three-quarters cup of flour, three eggs, three teaspoons of baking powder, rind of one-half lemon, one-half cup boiling water, four ounces of cocoa. Sift the flour and baking powder five times. Beat the yolks till thick and add the grated rind. Beat whites very stiff, continue beating, add the sugar to them, then the yolks, the flour and lastly the boiling water;

Things Worth Knowing.

When a pen has been used until it appears to be spoiled place it over a flame of gaslight, for instance, for a quarter of a minute, then dip it into water and will again be fit for work.

Wood or bone-handled knives should never be immersed in hot water or they will become loosened and discolored.

To cool custards quickly add a handful of salt and the same amount of soda to a bowl of water and place the custard mold in it. The custard will be ready to serve in a short time.

Saturated solution of borax is merely all the powder that will dissolve in a certain amount of water. It may be mixed by pouring liquid into a bottle until partly full and adding borax until no more is absorbed. This is applied to the complexion with a soft cloth and cuts the grease. It is also cleansing.

For School Lunches.

For school children to carry something warm this suggestion will be helpful: Take an ordinary tin can and in it place a jelly glass with a tight lid. Fill the space between with cotton. The glass may be filled with hot soup or chocolate and will keep hot for several hours if well packed and closely covered.

Women of Sedentary Habits:

Women who get but little exercise are likely to be troubled with constipation and indigestion and will find Chamberlain's Tablets highly beneficial. Not so good as a three or four mile walk every day, but very much better than to allow the bowels to remain in a constipated condition. They are easy and pleasant to take and most agreeable in effect. Obtainable everywhere.

LIBRARY NOTES.

PROGRESS.

Looking back over the past year, we find the Public Library has made marked progress in many directions. The figures of the annual report which appeared in this paper showed that 500 more people have availed themselves of the free privileges of the library than in 1914, making a total membership of 197,26,559 books were given to our patrons for home reading, which is an increase of 4,500 over the number read last year. Beside our home readers, nearly 10,000 people came into the library to read. There are often as many as thirty people a day pouring over the many attractive magazines on the reading tables.

It is interesting to observe the increasing number of books read by the children. You may be surprised to know that they read less fiction than grown-ups, and as a result library books are helping to educate them. It is the universal verdict of teachers in Seymour and elsewhere that the child who reads good books is a better student than the one who does not. One of the foremost objects of the library is to keep abreast of the work of our public schools. Only by so doing can the public library fill its place as an "integral part of public education." Not only are Seymour children using the library, but four school houses in the country have collections of library books. There, as well as here, the books are eagerly read by the children, and their parents enjoy the adult books which are provided for them. Whenever those living in the township come to town, they are cordially invited to use the reading rooms of the library. It is the constant aim of the library board and of the librarians to have all residents of Jackson township feel that the library is their's and that its service is absolutely free.

Peace in War Time.
It may be on a quiet mountain top,
Or some shy valley folded in the hills
You take your path, and often you will stop
To hear the quiet music of the rills,
The piping of the winds in branches
green,
The murmuring of widely lifted spray
As the long boughs swing,
And hear the twittering
Of drowsy birds as the great sun is seen
Climbing the steep horizon to the day.

The lovely moon trailing her silver dress
By quiet waters, each living star
Moving apart in holy quietness,
Sphere over golden sphere drifting afar,
These you can see, and the unquiet zone
Rolling in snow along the edge of sight.
The world is very fair, and I am free
To see its beauty, and to be
In solitude, and quiet forget, and quite
Lose out of memory all I have known
Of everything but this,
And have some peace at last
And have some peace.

Some Lesson—
A traveling salesman who has traveled much in the South and West tells the following story, which happened while he was in Dallas, Texas:
"I had just arrived in Dallas, and went to a fashionable hotel. The next morning at breakfast I got an idea of the population of the city.
"As I never eat heavily in the morning, I sat up at the counter. I hardly had been seated three minutes when in came a farmer and ordered a 'reg'-lar breakfast,' which was served to him without question.
"The first course was a half grape fruit, which the farmer looked at very suspiciously, and remarked, 'That's the biggest lemon I ever seen.'"

MUCH ADLER-I-KA USED IN SEYMOUR

It is reported by C. E. Loertz that much Alder-i-ka is sold in Seymour. People have found out that ONE SPOONFUL of this simple buck-thorn bark and glycerine mixture relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. It is so powerful that it is used successfully in appendicitis. ONE MINUTE after you take it the gasses rumble and pass out. It is perfectly safe to use and cannot gripe.

Meetings of this order, which succeeded the "Circle" were held as early as August, 1863. The first grand council in Indiana says Foulke, was organized by P. C. Wright, Editor of the New York News. The state was divided into four military districts under "Major Generals" which were sub-divided into "Brigadiers" and "Colonels." Harrison Dodd, "A man of romantic disposition, fond of mystery," reveling in senseless, mystical oaths, was elected grand commander. A favorite pass-word of the order was Nu-oh-lac, which spelled backwards, was suggestive.

CAL DOBBINS IS SEEKING DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION

Local Business Man Announces Candidacy for Representative from This County.

C. E. T. Dobbins, former proprietor of the New Lynn Hotel and business man, today advertises in this paper his candidacy for the nomination of representative from this county, subject to the Democratic primaries. He says he entered the race at the request of his Democratic friends and up to this time has no opposition.

Mr. Dobbins has been connected with several enterprises in this city and is now engaged in the brokerage business. He was born on a farm four miles west of this city and has spent practically his entire life in this city.

"As a boy," said Mr. Dobbins, "I worked with my father in the lumber business after he quit blacksmithing and sold his shop which was probably the first blacksmith and wagon shop in Jackson county. I cut logs for the old butter dish factory, for the Willman furniture factory and for the stove and heading mill."

"Later I went to Lafayette with the intention of entering business college, but secured a position traveling for an Illinois firm and traveled through the south, west and east. For two years I was in New York and one year in Boston when I traveled over the New England states."

"Upon my return to Seymour, the loveliest spot I knew, I was associated with the Hygiene Milling Company which was operated for three years. We also conducted a mill at Vallonia, where I formed some very close friendships. After that I purchased the New Lynn Hotel and was a partner of the Hon. C. E. Wood who interested me in the proposition. My next move was to purchase the old Jonas Hotel, and the building was afterwards sold to the Seymour Improvement Company. I worked quite hard to secure this building as the home of the B. & O. division offices and worked in connection with other citizens who were interested in securing the division for Seymour. Later I bought the New Lynn Hotel building. I managed this hotel for thirteen years but several years ago sold the furniture and fixtures to the present owner and leased the building on account of the condition of my health.

"I was instrumental in organizing the Seymour Wood Working Company which employs quite a number of people. After being connected with this concern for a year as president, I engaged in the real estate and brokerage business and have handled some big deals, one of which was the platting of Maplewood and Westover additions to the city of Seymour. I have built and improved these two additions at my own expense and have sold homes on the payment plan."

Last August while Mr. Dobbins was in Asbury Park, N. J., he was taken ill. He believes that he has a splendid chance of landing the nomination for the office he seeks and is encouraged by members of his party.

A WORD TO DEALERS.

"To procure the kind of merchandise people want—the storekeeper must know what people want."

Such is an axiom of one of our great merchants, who practices what he preaches.

One thing that the storekeeper does know is that there will be an initial demand for goods which the manufacturer advertises in the newspapers.

He knows that people will want to see these goods—and that if they have merit they will find favor more quickly than unadvertised wares.

The dealer not only stocks with them, but he pushes them at the time the newspaper advertising is running.

already arresting owners who drive their motor vehicles upon the streets and public roads without exhibiting the new license. In several places the authorities give the owners until the tenth of the month to secure their licenses and if they are not exhibited by that time they are haled into police court. In other places arrests were made at the very first of the month on the theory that the licenses could have been obtained in December if the owner had not neglected to send in the application.

With a few exceptions police officers only require that the application be filed with the secretary of state. It is pointed out that frequently the demands for license plates are so great that the office force is unable to mail all the plates requested at once and somebody is compelled to wait, frequently for a week or more. The police act upon the theory that if the application is filed the owner is in good faith and should not be held responsible for delays over which he has no control. In the strictest interpretation of the statute, however, the police officers are empowered to make arrests at any time after January 1 for failure to exhibit the new tags.

It is presumed that the usual custom will be followed by the local police this year. Heretofore ample time has been given each owner to secure his tag before arrests were made. Many applications have already gone from this city and county into the secretary of state's office and the plates are being returned a few days after the application is mailed. Some of the owners desiring to take no risk secured their licenses during the latter part of December.

It is expected, however, that after a reasonable time has been given owners who violate the motor law by operating their cars without licenses will face prosecution in the local courts.

BULGARIA IS HOLDING BACK

Declines to Further Assist Germany—
Albanian Chief Declares War Against Austria and Germany—
Well Supplied With Munitions.

London, Jan. 6.—While England is still debating the question of compulsion, the Russians' great conscript armies are making desperate onslaughts on the Austro-Germans before Cernowitz, where, according to Russian official reports, the Russians have not only repulsed Austrian counter attacks northeast of that city, but themselves are steadily advancing.

Austrian official reports deny the progress of the Russians, and declare the Muscovites are sustaining heavy losses.

The military plans of the central powers in the near east are still veiled in mystery, but reports received from French sources are skeptical in regard to rumors that they are on the point of resuming the offensive in Macedonia. According to these reports, the central empires have only thirteen infantry divisions available for such service, and unless Bulgaria supplies the deficiency, it would be sheer madness, French critics believe, for them to attack the forces of the entente in their entrenched positions.

And it is said that Bulgaria gives little indication of volunteering such aid. According to unofficial reports she declines any further assistance, on the ground that she has fulfilled her bargain by conquering a part of Serbia and doing her share toward opening the road to Constantinople.

In Albania there has been apparent activity with relatively small military results. Perhaps the most important event in Albania is the declaration of war by Essad Pasha against Austria and Germany. This irregular chieftain is erratic, but an undisputed military genius with a large and loyal following, and he is reported to be well supplied with guns and munitions.

England has continued her colonial warfare with success in the Kamerun, where it is officially reported that the German base has been occupied by the British forces. French troops also are known to be converging on Jaunde from the east and southeast, so that the fleeing Germans soon may be surrounded.

On none of the other fronts has any change of importance taken place. The Austrians have captured an Italian trench near Tolmino, and the Montenegrins have recaptured Bogilevac from the Austrians, inflicting on them severe losses.

GERMAN PLOTTER KOENIG ILL

Secret Service Chief Worked Under Orders of Boy-Ed and Von Papen.

New York, Jan. 6.—Paul Koenig, the head of the Hamburg-American line's detective bureau, who was arrested and indicted recently for conspiring to blow up the Welland canal, is regarded by the federal authorities as an important factor in the German plots that are said to have been worked out with the idea of injuring the shipment of supplies to the allies. Koenig, it was reported, worked directly under the instructions of Captain Boy-Ed and Captain von Papen, the recalled naval and military attaches of the German embassy. He made reports to those men directly concerning the various enterprises he had on hand.

Koenig is now ill at his home here. Though at first his illness was reported to be ptomaine poisoning, he is really said to have suffered a breakdown. He has been confined to his home practically ever since he was released on bail.

The child, who was suffering from pneumonia, was terribly burned and lived only a few hours. Attendants removed the other children to safety and quickly extinguished the flames.

DECISION OF COURT
ENDS CONTROVERSY

any one demanding any ballot, for lack of adherence to the party whose ballot he demands, in which case the one challenged cannot vote unless he makes the prescribed oath of party allegiance. A literal construction of the language of the statute, and a disregard of the law of waiver, might warrant such conclusion, but, in interpreting a statutory provision, other relevant portions thereof, and its purpose, and common law rules, should be considered.

As applicable at present, the act contemplates a separate primary by each of the parties, Democratic, Progressive, and Republican, at the same time and place, with nothing in common but a single set of officers. One of the prominent designs of the act is to preserve the integrity and usefulness of political parties by giving each adherent thereof a free and equal voice in the selection of candidates and the determination of party principles and policies, and this can not be accomplished without excluding those who adhere to other parties, or to no party. Some test of affiliation is, therefore, necessary.

However, appellee Mote has changed his party adherence, and now wishes to vote with the Republicans. He can not make the affidavit prescribed. If the Republicans see fit to waive a challenge, may a Democrat, with whatever motive, interpose one and exclude him? If so, one of the purposes of the act—exclusion of opposition party influence—will be defeated, for it happens that at every election many voters with the purest motives, change their political allegiance.

"One may waive any right conferred for his own benefit, whether contractual, statutory or constitutional, unless the relinquishment is detrimental to the public. * * * The statute here fixes a condition in the form of a fealty oath. In our opinion this test was intended solely for the benefit of the political parties interested, and the performance of the condition may be waived by the particular political party whose fight may be involved. Such waiver contravenes no principle of public policy.

"The Republican party, or any member thereof, in Mr. Mote's case, has the undoubted right to challenge his vote, but if all Republicans are satisfied of the genuineness of his party affiliations and decide to waive the right of challenge, we perceive no good reason why Mr. Cassidy or any other Democrat should be accorded the right to change the possible result of the Republican primary by excluding from such election one who claims to be a Republican and who has convinced that party of his good faith.

"Nor does a Progressive occupy a better position, unless we concede that it was the absurd purpose of the law to prevent voters from changing party allegiance. The fealty test was adopted from voluntary rules of political parties, in force for decades, and its enactment into law was to better enable such parties to protect themselves from frauds of outsiders. It is a matter of common knowledge that at such voluntary primaries party strangers are not only denied the right to challenge voters for nonadherence, but were excluded from the buildings where the elections were being held.

"* * * There is nothing in the constitutional provision making it unlawful for one to voluntarily state how he voted, or how he intends to vote. * * * Primary election laws are not designed for nonpartisan nominations. Their sole object is to regulate nominations by political parties. No well-disposed person would seek to intrude on an organization whose principles he disapproves, and the fealty test is designed to prevent ill-disposed ones from perpetrating frauds on political parties."

The other contentions of the appellant Kelso relative to other sections of the law are taken up and disposed of, and there is much other argument in favor of the validity of Section 10.

The court holds that the Floyd circuit court was correct in holding that Section 13 of the law was unconstitutional and in part says:

Card of Thanks.

Pest House.

At a conference of the special committee of the council late yesterday afternoon relative to the need of erecting a pest house it was decided that an emergency existed and the building was ordered at once. Plans were immediately decided upon and the work was begun today. The building is being erected on the city's property on East Second street. As soon as it is completed some of the smallpox patients will be removed there. This action was taken so that the quarantines can be lifted from some of the ohmes in the city.

District Convention Closes.

The District Convention of Christian churches at Brownstown closed Wednesday evening. The purpose of the meeting was to get the state workers and the county board together in a conference for better Sunday School and church work for the year 1916. The state was represented by State Sunday School Superintendent, Garry L. Cook, State Secretary, C. W. Cauble, State C. W. B. M. President, Mrs. O. E. Griest, and Evangelist Fred R. Davies. The sessions were well attended by interested workers from over the district and some interesting talks were given.

Rev. H. H. Adamson, of Bloomington, spoke last night to the members of the Church of Christ in Society Hall. Mr. Adamson held a successful meeting last summer in the city park and made many friends, who will always welcome him to Seymour. He will probably hold another meeting here in July.

BABY SAVED BY WIRELESS.

Ship's Surgeon Sends Out Radio For Prescription and Gets Response.

An unusual wireless message was picked up by the Cape Hatteras station the other day and received such prompt attention that a baby in all probability was saved from death.

The message stated that a baby on board a vessel several hundred miles away was critically ill and that the ship's physician had exhausted his skill without avail and appealed on behalf of the mother to any physician who might get the radio to prescribe for the infant.

With the symptoms given the operator at Cape Hatteras sent the message to Dr. Sutton, two miles away. The doctor gave him a prescription, and it was flashed through the air. A few hours later the operator received another wireless saying the prescription had been filled and that the child had shown immediate improvement and was considered out of danger.

FINDS 1775 SIX DOLLAR BILL.

Jersey City Man's Discovery in Old
Bible May Net Him $1,000.

From his grandfather's family Bible, discolored with the attic dust of twenty years, fluttered a six dollar bill to make happy William Waidleigh of Jersey City. His chum, Harry Jacobson, who has a half interest in the discovery, has been told that this scrap of paper, 3½ by 3 and 140 years old, is worth nearer $1,000 than its face value.

"This bill entitles the bearer to receive six Spanish dollars, or the value thereof, in gold or silver, or the value resolution of congress passed at Philadelphia, Nov. 29, 1775," are the words on one side, and "Continental Currency" on the other. It is numbered 82,352, bears the signature of A. Bunker and William Webb and was made by Hall & Sellers at Philadelphia.

William Waidleigh, late grandfather of the finder, placed the bill in the Bible.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

FOURTH ANNIVERSARY.

Class No. 1 of the Baptist Home Department held its fourth anniversary Wednesday afternoon at the home of the teacher, Mrs. Culver, East Fifth street. There was a large attendance and an interesting program was given as follows:

Reading, "What Do You Believe Counts?".....Mrs. Myrtle Clark.

Duet.....Mrs. O. D. Hunt and Miss Edith Buckles.

Recitation, "Prayer".....Theodorice Clark.

Song, "Jesus Loves Me".....Lavan Cooley and Lora Hunt.

Recitation, "Helpfulness"....Buddie Clark.

Reading, "What is Happiness".....Mrs. Luara Scharfenberger.

Reading, "Gift Day".....Mrs. O. D. Hunt.

Talk.....President, Mrs. Harsh.

Plans were proposed to raise money for the building fund for the new chapel. During the social hour refreshments were served, and the afternoon proved very enjoyable.

DINNER—DANCE.

One of the most brilliant social events of the season was the dinner-dance given by the Elks last evening at their lodge rooms. At six o'clock an elaborate turkey dinner was served to the members, their families and a number of invited guests. Following the dinner the company enjoyed dancing and cards until midnight.

The dancing program was unusually enjoyable and the excellent music added to the pleasure of the evening.

The Elks have a reputation for their elaborate social entertainments and the affair last night was one of the most successful ever held.

ENJOYED LUNCH.

The December social committee of the Women's Relief Corps, entertained the members this afternoon after the regular business session with a delightful lunch of sandwiches, pickles, doughnuts and coffee. On Friday evening they will install their new officers with the G. A. R.

INDIANA STUDY CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Indiana Study Club was held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Patience Guernsey, West Second street. Continuing the year's travel the members today were in "Florida with stop-over privileges."

The roll call was answered with current events, followed by music, "My Old Kentucky Home." Mrs. Lenore Swails read a paper, "The Blue Grass Country," and Mrs. Mayme Cox presented "Across Georgia with Story and Song." "The Enchantments of Florida," was the subject of the paper given by Mrs. Olive Conner.

SEWING SOCIETY.

Mrs. George Huber entertained the Ladies' Sewing Society of the German Lutheran church this afternoon at her home on East Fourth street. The ladies spent a pleasant afternoon with sewing and during the afternoon refreshments were enjoyed.

CHRISTIAN LADIES' AID.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Central Christian Church will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. T. M. Hopewell, 614 N. Chestnut street. Every member is requested to be present.

FACTIONAL TROUBLE IN NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE

Republicans in Control of Law Making Body in President Wilson's Home State.

By United Press

Trenton, N. J., January 6—The 140th legislature of New Jersey will convene Jan. 11 for a session which promises to be fraught with bitter party and factional strife. The reason for this forecast is that New Jersey with its republican legislature, democratic governor and democratic other state officials, next fall will vote for President, U. S. Senator and Governor. And this is Wilson's home state. It may develop into the biggest fight in the history of this compact little commonwealth.
The Democrats in the State Senate and House of Assembly will strive to enhance the fortunes of their party to the end that President Wilson may roll up a big majority in his home state; while the GOP representatives will maneuver to have the advantage in the coming contest before the people. In the State Senate the Republican majority will be 5, there being 13 of them to 8 Democrats.
The House will have 40 Republicans to 20 Democrats and the majority on joint ballot will be 25, thus insuring the election of a Republican State Treasurer to succeed the Democratic incumbent, State Chairman Grossep.

BILL WOULD STOP FOREIGN TRAVEL

Congress Debates Submarine Issue.

BRYAN'S HAND IS SEEN

Measures Introduced Would Forbid Americans From Embarking on Ships Carrying Munitions—Neutral Policy Is Attacked in the Senate.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The effort to keep the submarine issue out of the debates in congress for the present has failed.

The senate plunged into a discussion of this subject with an abandon that surprised the more conservative members and that finally led Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee to cut off the debate with a call for an executive session.

The debate in the senate disclosed a surprisingly strong sentiment in favor of again curtailing the rights of American citizens to travel the high seas on belligerent vessels or on vessels of any other character which carry munitions of war. The disclosure of this sentiment was the most important development in the submarine situation and is likely to be reflected in the administration's handling of the case of the Persia, which was sunk with United States Consul McNeely on board.

The sentiment in the senate against American citizens endangering the peace of the country by traveling on belligerent merchant ships was further emphasized by two bills introduced by Senator Gore of Oklahoma, one of the Democratic leaders.

One of these bills prevents the issuance of passports to any American citizen except upon his making affidavits that he will not travel on a belligerent vessel.

The second bill prevents belligerent ships from entering or clearing ports of the United States, if they transport American citizens as passengers. The bill also would withhold protection from any American who traveled the high seas without a passport obtained in conformity with the legislation proposed.

The second bill goes still further and forbids Americans from traveling on American or vessels of neutral nations which are engaged in carrying contraband of war and passengers at one and the same time.

Senator Gore introduced these bills after he had conferred with William J. Bryan. Representative Stephens of Nebraska, Mr. Bryan's friend, introduced a bill of similar sort in the house. It is apparent that Colonel Bryan and his friends are preparing to push these measures with all the energy at their command and developments indicate they will have support from quarters that usually are not sympathetic with Mr. Bryan.

In a discussion of the submarine issue there was no division along party lines. Senator Jones of Washington, Republican, denounced as unpatriotic Americans who imperiled the nation by embarking on belligerent vessels. Senator Works of California, Republican, asserted the government was unneutral and was participating in the war through the sale of munitions.

Senator Lodge, Republican, asserted that to stop selling munitions would be unneutral and would help Germany more than a million men and would make this country an ally to Germany.

Sensors O'Gorman of New York and Hitchcock of Nebraska, both Democrats, urged the advisability of an embargo on munitions.

OFFERS TO BUY BANK STOCK

Vermillion May Take Over People's State National Bank.

Anderson, Ind., Jan. 6.—It was announced at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the People's State National bank of Anderson that Jesse L. Vermillion, president of the Anderson Banking company, had offered to buy the entire stock of the People's bank and that the offer probably would be accepted.

It was understood that Mr. Vermillion would pay between $100,000 and $128,000 for the stock. It is probable that the People's bank will be merged with the Anderson bank.

Fire Threatens Government Building.

Washington, Jan. 6.—A fire was discovered in the state, war and navy building, within a stone's throw of the White House. The blaze was checked in time to save public records of great value. There are several suspicious circumstances connected with the fire.

CALL FOR MILITARY CAMP IS SENT OUT

Big Citizen-Soldier Training Camp Provided.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Application blanks have been sent out all over the United States to business, professional, scientific and laboring men to attend the military training camp to be held at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., April 3 to 13.

Three citizen-soldier camps already have been held the first and biggest at Plattsburg, N. Y., the second at Fort Sheridan, Ill., near Chicago, and the third on the Pacific coast. This is the fourth and what is planned to be the greatest so far.

It is the determination of the government to carry out the advice of the president in "providing a system by which each citizen who will volunteer for the training may be made familiar with the use of modern arms, the rudiments of drill maneuvers and the maintenance and sanitation of camps." The new camp not only will draw from the south, where it is located, but from all over the nation.

At these camps great stress is laid upon personal hygiene and camp sanitation, and a serious effort is made to teach men how to take care of themselves in camp and at maneuvers, as well as to familiarize them with the use of arms. The conduct of the camps tend to establish habits of promptness and exactness, and to the careful observance and prompt execution of instructions.

Secondary to these more serious purposes of the camp there is to be considered the physical benefit of a healthy, out-of-doors life, vigorous exercise, discipline, good food and association with a fine lot of men from every section of the country.

THREE DAMAGE SUITS FILED

Indianapolis Traction and Terminal Company Sued.

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—Three suits against the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company were filed in the Marion county courts to recover damages for alleged injuries to passengers.

Mrs. Selma Kienly charges that her legs are paralyzed as a result of being thrown to the street by the sudden starting of a car as she was about to board it. She asks $5,000 as damages. A suit filed by her husband, Jacob Kienly, asks $2,000 damages because her injuries have caused him expenses and deprived him of his wife's care in rearing two children.

Huida C. Taylor, in a suit, alleges she suffered permanent injuries when thrown from an Irvington car as she was about to board the car. She asks $5,000 as damages. All suits charge negligence in the operation of the cars.

Clothing Catches Fire.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 6.—Benjamin Koenig, age twenty-eight, a furniture worker, had matches in his hip pocket and when he sat down to a meal at his home, at Gell avenue and Keller street, the matches were ignited. The man's clothing was on fire instantly. Several buckets of water were thrown on Koenig and the flames were extinguished.

Dog's Barking Prevents Robbery.

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 6.—The barking of a pet dog prevented the robbery here of the home of D. A. Hyman, county treasurer. The burglars tried to effect an entrance to the cellar, but the dog made so much noise that Mrs. Hyman awakened. Two men then fled from the yard.

Farmers to Have Wolf Hunt.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 6.—Four hundred farmers of Jasper county will conduct a wolf hunt on Friday. They will be led by Charles Burrett. The roundup will cover a territory of thirty-six miles square, in which many wolves are said to be. Rifles and pistols are barred.

NO NEW DETAILS ON PERSIA CASE

Consuls Urged to Hasten With Their Reports.

WILL AWAIT FOR FULL FACTS

Senate Committee on Foreign Relations Will Begin Consideration of Case Friday—Shipping and Submarine Warfare Questions Are Up.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Official details upon which President Wilson and Senator Lansing will decide the course of the United States in the crisis brought about by the sinking of the steamship Persia still are lacking and in the absence of specific information official Washington continued to view the admittedly grave situation with an open mind.

During a conference which lasted an hour the president and secretary of state carefully considered such information as had been received. While no announcement regarding the conference was made, it is known that the president will adhere to his position of taking no action of any sort until the full facts are before him.

During the day the state department sent additional instructions to its representatives abroad, urging haste in the gathering of information. Secretary Lansing made it clear that the department had received nothing which would tend to establish two most essential points, namely, whether a torpedo sank the Persia and, if so, the nationality of the submarine which fired it.

The senate committee on foreign relations will begin consideration of the situation Friday, Chairman Stone having called the meeting. Members of the committee generally agreed that the whole subject of the relations of the United States with the Teutonic powers would be freely discussed. The majority of the committee is understood to look with favor upon the determination of the administration to proceed with the utmost caution.

Secretary Lansing sent to the committee an accumulation of information bearing upon the attitude of Great Britain toward neutral shipping, called for in a resolution by Senator Hoke Smith, and information regarding the negotiations with Germany in regard to submarine warfare requested in an amendment offered by Senator Lodge.

It was reported also that all the information regarding the sinking of the Persia thus far received had been communicated to the committee. Members, however, declined to divulge the exact nature of the documents received from the state department or discuss their contents.

Senator O'Gorman of New York declared in the senate that Mr. McNeely, the American consul, believed to have been lost when the Persia was sunk, had disregarded urgent advice of Consul General Skinner at London to sail on a Dutch liner to Aden, rather than on a belligerent ship.

APPORTION SCHOOL FUND

State to Distribute $1,561,136 Among 768,622 Indiana Pupils.

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—There are 768,622 school children in Indiana and each child will be apportioned $2.03 by the state to assist in paying for his education, according to the semi-annual report of Ernest R. Welborn, deputy in the office of Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction.

The total fund to be apportioned amounts to $1,561,136.31, and is obtained as the interest on permanent school funds held by the state for the purpose. This apportionment is made twice each year. Through the apportionment Marion county will receive $132,349.91. The county has paid $198,901.40 into the fund.

750 STEEL WORKERS STRIKE

Men in Jersey City Plant Have Been Making War Munitions.

New York, Jan. 6.—Seven hundred and fifty men employed at the plant of the Crucible Steel company of America, at Jersey City, struck, according to strike leaders. The men ask an advance of 15 per cent in their wages.

Two weeks ago the mill men, numbering about 250, employed in the works, received an advance of 15 per cent. All other employees now ask the same advance. Strikers said the mill had been working on war material for some time.

Will Know Fate by Saturday.

New York, Jan. 6.—Delancey Nicolli uttered the last words in behalf of the eleven former directors of the New Haven railroad and after special assistant Attorney General Batts, sums up for the government, the fate of the men will rest with Judge Hunt and the jury. In all likelihood the result will be known by Saturday morning.

Discuss British Compulsion.

London, Jan. 6.—The German semi-official press devotes much space to the question of compulsion in Great Britain, deriding very universally the Asquith government.

JUDGE E. H. GARY

Steel Magnate Urges Caution in Business World.

JUDGE GARY SOUNDS NOTE OF WARNING

Declares Danger Ahead in Business World.

New York, Jan. 6.—A note of caution regarding over-expansion in finance and industry, together with an earnest plea for a tariff readjustment, which will prevent the dumping of cheaply manufactured goods in this country after the war, were the two salient factors brought out in a lengthy statement issued by Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation.

Judge Gary was extremely optimistic regarding present conditions, stating that the steel mills were running to capacity and that the demand for steel was so great the prices could easily be advanced—hinting that they might be. He added that the present steel bookings were greatly in excess of the production, which is larger than ever before.

The future, however, he pointed out, is beyond the power of man to fathom with any certainty. It may be dark and desperate when the war is over. This is the greatest country in the world, he said, with the greatest opportunities, and it may properly be hopeful and confident if necessary steps to protect it are taken. Such steps can be achieved only through proper governmental assistance to private enterprise, which in its turn must appreciate and reciprocate.

DENY BREAD IS SOGGY

Farmers Say Agent Did Not Visit Their Homes.

Hartford City, Ind., Jan. 6.—A number of farmers in the southwestern part of Blackford county object to the report that was made to Dr. J. N. Hurty on the health survey of this county by George Shae of Indianapolis.

The report says that nearly all of the farms of the county were visited, and at more than 100 homes where the agent took dinner he found that the bread was soggy and the meat was like leather.

The farmers say the agent never visited their farms and they believe he did them an injustice.

LEGISLATOR IS MURDERED

Arkansas State Representative Shot From Ambush by Unknown.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 6.—Allen Nixon, age forty-three, a member of the Arkansas legislature, was shot from ambush and killed instantly, according to advices reaching here from Ozark, Franklin county, his home. Deputies with bloodhounds are seeking Nixon's slayer.

Two months ago Nixon and K. C. McLaughlin, a brother of Neil McLaughlin, who is under death sentence in the Arkansas penitentiary, engaged in a revolver duel in which McLaughlin was injured so seriously that it was thought he would die. Nixon was wounded slightly.

Atlanta Mayor Not Recalled.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 6.—Atlanta voted against the recall of Mayor James G. Woodward and five members of the police commission, who, last September demoted Chief of Police Heavers, after he had closed the red light district, and had begun a campaign against the locker clubs. Complete returns are not yet in, but on the basis of those received, it appears that the recall had been beaten about two to one in a total vote of about 9,000.

$1,250,000 Expenditure Justified.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Expenditure of $1,250,000 for a sixteen-foot levee at Volcano lake to prevent flooding of the Imperial valley in California, is justified, according to a report to the congress by General W. L. Marshall, government engineer.

Shareholders' Meeting.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the First National Bank of Seymour, Indiana, for the election of directors and the transaction of such other business that may come before them, will be held at the office of said bank on Tuesday, January 11, 1916, at 10 o'clock a. m.

E. O. Heuser, Cashier.

May Pass Compulsion Bill.

London, Jan. 6.—Premier Asquith presented the compulsory military service bill in the house of commons, thereby inaugurating a parliamentary struggle upon which hangs the fate of the present British cabinet. Opponents of the bill have gained in strength, yet it is the general prediction of the press and public that the government will win.

One Marshal Quits.

Bloomfield, Ind., Jan. 6.—The reign of two marshals in Bloomfield came to a sudden end when the town board voted to recognize Joshua Cook, who was elected last November at an election called by the board. When this decision was announced, Thomas M. Wilson, who had been marshal, announced that he would no longer contest.

Woman Injured When Seeking Food. Hammond, Ind., Jan. 6.—Mrs. Peter Wocik of East Chicago, was seriously injured when a switch engine struck her. Her husband is out of work as the result of an accident, and she was picking up grain for food when the accident occurred.

Prevent Diphtheria.

A sore throat is a good breeding place for diphtheria germs. Protect your children by never neglecting a Sore Throat. You can wisely depend upon TONSILINE. Give Tonsiline upon the first appearance of Sore Throat—don't give Diphtheria a chance in that throat in its weakened condition. When TONSILINE is swallowed it comes directly in contact with the diseased surface and induces a healthy condition of the membranes—then the system can better defend the throat if attacked by Diphtheria germs. Keep TONSILINE in the house where you can get it quick when needed. 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Seven Keys TO Baldpate

CHAPTER VI.

"From Tears to Smiles."

THE gentleman thus referred to served them genially. He brought to Mr. Magee, between whom and himself he recognized the tie of authorship, a copy of a New York paper that he claimed to get each morning from the station agent, and which helped him greatly, he said, in his eternal search for the woman. As the meal passed, Mr. Magee glanced it through. Twice he looked up from it to study keenly his queer companions at Baldpate inn. Finally he handed it across the table to the haberdasher. The dull yellow sun of a winter morning drifted in from the white outdoors; the fire sputtered gaily in the grate; also Mr. Peters' falling for literature interfered in no way with his talents as cook. The three finished the repast in great good humor, and Mr. Magee handed round cigars.

"Gentlemen," he remarked, pushing back his chair, "we find ourselves in a peculiar position. Three lone men, knowing nothing of one another, we have sought the solitude of Baldpate inn at almost the same moment. Why? Last night, before you came, Professor Bolton, Mr. Bland gave me as his reason for being here the story of Arabella, which I afterward appropriated as a joke and gave as my own reason. I related to Mr. Bland the fiction about the artist and the besieging novelists. We swapped stories when you came. It was our merry little method of doubting each other's word. Perhaps it was bad taste. At any rate, looking at it in the morning light, I am inclined to return Mr. Bland's Arabella, and no questions asked. He is again the lovely haberdasher. I am inclined to believe, implicitly, your story. That is my proposition. No doubts of one another. We are here for whatever reasons we say we are."

The professor nodded gravely. "Last night," went on Mr. Magee, "there was some talk between Mr. Bland and myself about one of us leaving the inn. Mr. Bland demanded it. I trust he sees the matter differently this morning. I for one should be sorry to see him go."

"I've changed my mind," said Mr. Bland. The look on his thin face was not a pleasant one.

"I have a letter to Mr. Quimby from my old friend, John Bentley," said the professor, "which I am sure will win me the caretaker's warm regard."

Mr. Magee looked at Bland.

"I'll get Andy Rutter on the wire," said that gentleman. "Quimby will listen to him, I guess."

"Maybe," remarked Magee carelessly. "Who is Rutter?"

"He's manager of the inn when it's open," answered Bland. He looked suspiciously at Magee. "I only know him slightly," he added.

"Those matters you will arrange for yourselves," Mr. Magee went on. "I shall be very glad of your company if you can fix it to stay. Believe it or not—I forgot, we agreed to believe, didn't we?—I am here to do some writing. I'm going up to my room now to do a little work. All I ask of you gentlemen is that, as a favor to me, you refrain from shooting at each other while I am gone. You see, I am trying to keep crude melodrama out of my stuff."

"I am sure," remarked Professor Bolton, "that the use of firearms as a means of social diversion between Mr. Bland and myself is unthought of."

"I hope so," responded Magee. "There, then, the matter rests. We are here—that is all." He hesitated, as though in doubt. Then, with a decisive motion, he drew toward him the New York paper. With his eyes on the headlines of the first page, he continued: "I shall demand no further explanations. And except for this once I shall make no reference to this story in the newspaper, to the effect that early yesterday morning in a laboratory at one of our leading universities a young assistant instructor was found dead under peculiar circumstances." He glanced keenly at the bald headed little man across from him. "Nor shall I make conversation of the fact," he added, "that the professor of chemistry at the university, a man past middle age, respected highly in the university circle is missing."

An oppressive silence followed this remark. Mr. Bland's sly eyes sought quickly the professor's face. The older man sat staring at his plate; then he raised his head and the round spectacles were turned full on Magee.

"You are very kind," said Professor Bolton evenly.

"There is another story in this paper," went on Mr. Magee, glancing at the haberdasher, "that, it seems to me, I ought to taboo as table talk at Baldpate inn. It relates that a few days ago the youthful cashier of a bank in a small Pennsylvania town disappeared with $30,000 of the bank's funds. No," he concluded, "we are simply here, gentlemen, and I am very glad to let it go at that."

Mr. Bland sneered knowingly. "I should think you would be," he said. "If you'll turn that paper over you'll read on the back page that day before yesterday a lot of expensive paintings in a New York millionaire's house were cut from their frames and that the young artist who was doing retouching in the house at the time has been just careless enough not to send his address to the police."

Mr. Magee threw back his head and laughed heartily.

"We understand one another, it seems," he said. "I look forward to pleasant companionship where I had expected solitude. Ah, here's Peters!" he added as the hermit entered through the dining room door at the side of the stairs.

"Peters," said Mr. Magee, "we have been wondering if you will stay on here and cook for us. We need you. How about it?"

"Well, I'll be glad to help you out," the hermit replied. "I guess I can manage to give satisfaction, seeing there ain't no women around. If there was I wouldn't think of it. Yes, I'll stay and do what I can to boost the hermit life in your estimation. I"—

He stopped. His eyes were on the dining room door, toward which Mr. Magee's back was turned. The jaw of Peters fell, and his mouth stood wide open. Behind the underbrush of beard a very surprised face was discernible.

Mr. Magee turned quickly. A few feet inside the door stood the girl of the station, weeping no more, but radiant with smiles. Back of her was the determined, impossible companion of yesterday.

Mr. Magee turned quickly. A few feet inside the door stood the girl of the station, weeping no more, but radiant with smiles. Back of her was the determined, impossible companion of yesterday.

"Oh, mamma," laughed the girl, "we're too late for breakfast! Isn't it a shame?"

"From tears to smiles," said Mr. Magee, taking the girl's hand. "What worked the transformation? Not the Commercial House, I know, for I passed it last evening."

"No, hardly the Commercial House," laughed the girl. "Rather the sunshine of a winter morning, the brisk walk up the mountain and the sight of the hermit of Baldpate with eyes like saucers staring at a little girl who once bought his postal cards."

"Then you know Mr. Peters?" inquired Magee.

"Is that his name? You see, I never met him in private life—he was just the hermit when I knew him. I used to come to Baldpate in the summers and send his cards back to the folks at home and dream dreams of his love story when from my window I saw the light of his shack at night. I'm so glad to meet Mr. Peters informally."

She held out her hand, but Peters, by long practice wary of women, had burdened himself with breakfast plates which prevented his clasping it. He muttered "How d'ye do?" and fled toward the door, narrowly averting what would have proved a serious collision with the large woman on the way.

"Mr. Peters meets so few of your sex in winter," Magee apologized, "you must pardon his clumsiness. This gentleman"—he indicated the professor, who arose—"is Thaddeus Bolton, a distinguished member of a certain university faculty, who has fled to Baldpate to escape the press of America. And this is Mr. Bland, who hides here from the world the scars of a broken heart."

The girl smiled brightly. "And you"—she asked.

"William Hallowell Magee," he returned, bowing low. "I have a neat little collection of stories accounting for my presence here, from which I shall allow you to choose later. Not to mention the real one, which is simple almost to a fault."

"I am so happy to meet you all," said the girl. "We shall no doubt become very good friends, for mamma and I have also come to Baldpate inn—to stay."

Mr. Bland opened wide his usually narrow eyes and ran his hand thoughtfully over his one day's beard. Professor Bolton blinked his astonishment. Mr. Magee smiled.

"I for one am delighted to hear it," he said.

"My name," went on the girl, "is Mary Norton. May I present my mother, Mrs. Norton?"

The older woman adopted what was obviously her society manner.

"I certainly am pleased to meet you all," she said in her heavy voice. "Ain't it a lovely morning after the storm? The sun's almost blinding."

"Some explanation," put in Miss Norton quickly, "is due you if I am to trust myself thus upon you. I am perfectly willing to tell why I am here, but the matter mustn't leak out. I can trust you, I'm sure."

"The bandits of Baldpate," Magee remarked flippantly, glancing at the two men, "have their own code of honor, and the first rule is never to betray a pal."

"Splendid!" laughed the girl. "You said, I believe, that Professor Bolton was fleeing from the newspapers. I am feeling for the newspapers—to attract their attention, to lure them into giving me that thing so necessary to a woman in my profession—publicity. You see, I am an actress. The name I gave you is not my stage name. That, perhaps, you would know. I employ a gentleman to keep me before the public as much as possible. It's horrid, I know, but it means bread and butter to me. That gentleman, my press agent, evolved the present scheme—a mysterious disappearance."

She paused and looked at the others. Mr. Magee surveyed her narrowly. He wondered.

"I am to disappear completely for a time," she went on. "As though the earth had swallowed me," will be the good old phrase of the reporters. I am to linger here at Baldpate inn, a key to which my press agent has secured for me. Meanwhile the papers will speak tearfully of me in their headlines, at least I hope they will. Can't you just see them—those headlines? 'Beautiful Actress Drops From Sight!' She stopped, blushing. "Every woman who gets into print, you know, is beautiful."

"But it'd be no lie in your case, dearie," put in Mrs. Norton, feeling carefully of her atrociously blond store hair.

"Your mother takes the words from my mouth," smiled Mr. Magee.

"From what part of Ireland do you come?" laughed the girl. She seemed somewhat embarrassed by her mother's open admiration. "Well, setting all blarney aside, such will be the headlines. And when the last clew is exhausted and my press agent is the same I come back to appear in a new play, a well known actress. Of such flippant things is a Broadway reputation built."

"We all wish you success, I'm sure," Mr. Magee searched his memory in vain for this "actress" name and fame. The answer was simple. Another fable was being spun from whole cloth beneath the roof of Baldpate inn. "We have a New York paper here," he went on, "but as yet there seems to be no news of your sad disappearance."

"Wouldn't it be the limit if they didn't fall for it?" queried the older woman.

"Fall for it," repeated Professor Bolton, not questioning, but with the air of a scientist about to add a new and rare specimen to his alcohol jar.

"She means if they didn't accept my disappearance as legitimate news," explained the girl. "That would be very disappointing. But surely there was no harm in making the experiment."

"They're a clever lot, those newspaper guys," sneered Mr. Bland, "in their own opinion. But when you come right down to it every one of 'em has a nice little collection of gold bricks in his closet. I guess you've got them going. I hope so."

"Thank you," smiled the girl. "You are very kind. You are here, I understand, because of an unfortunate—er—affair of the heart?"

Mr. Bland smoothed back his black oily hair from his forehead and smirked. "Oh, now"—he protested.

"Arabella," put in Mr. Magee, "was her name. The beauties of history and mythology hobbled into oblivion at sight of her."

"I'm quick to forget," insisted Mr. Bland.

"That does you no credit, I'm sure," replied the girl severely. "And now, mamma, I think we had better select our rooms."

She paused, for Elijah Quimby had come in through the dining room door. "Well!" he drawled. "Mr. Magee," he said, "that letter from Mr. Bentley asked me to let you stay at Baldpate inn. There wasn't anything in it about your bringing parties of friends along."

"These are not friends I've brought along," explained Magee. "They're simply some more amateur hermits who have strolled in from time to time. All have their individual latchkeys to the hermitage. And all, I believe, have credentials for you to examine."

Mr. Quimby stared in angry wonder. Professor Bolton rose from his chair. "So you are Quimby," he said in a soothing tone. "I'm glad to meet you at last. My old friend John Bentley has spoken of you so often. I have a letter from him." He drew the caretaker to one side and took an envelope from his pocket. The two conversed in low tones.

The greatest enemy of your teeth

When scientists recently discovered the cause of that dread disease, pyorrhea, they discovered the greatest enemy of your teeth. Why yours? Because the germ that causes this disease inhabits every human mouth!

Your dentist will tell you that half of all the permanent teeth lost are lost from this disease. This is because people have not realized before that everyone should take precautions against this enemy. You can start now to ward off its constant attack and escape the terrible results of this disease by using the proper corrective and preventive treatment in your daily toilet.

To meet the need for this treatment and to enable everyone to take precautions against this disease, a prominent dentist has put his own prescription before the public in the convenient form of Senreco Tooth Paste.

Senreco contains the best corrective and preventive for pyorrhea known to dental science. Used daily it will successfully protect your teeth from this disease. Senreco also contains the best harmless agent for keeping the teeth clean and white. It has a refreshing flavor and leaves a wholesomely clean, cool and pleasant taste in the mouth.

Start the Senreco treatment tonight—full details in the folder wrapped around every tube. Symptoms described. A 25c two oz. tube is sufficient for six or eight weeks of the pyorrhea treatment. Get Senreco at your druggists today, or send 4c in stamps or coin for sample tube and folder. Address The Sentanel Remedies Co., 502 Union Central Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Bad Cold Quickly Broken Up.

Mrs. Martha Wilcox, Gowanda, N. Y. writes: "I first used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy about eight years ago. At that time I had a hard cold and coughed most of the time. It proved to be just what I needed. It broke up the cold in a few days, and the cough entirely disappeared. I have told many of my friends of the good I received through using this medicine, and all who have used it speak of it in the highest terms." Obtainable everywhere.

WEAK, SORE LINGS

Restored To Health By Vinol

Camden, N. J.—"I had a deep seated cough, was run-down, and my lungs were weak and sore. I had tried everything suggested without help. One evening I read about Vinol and decided to try it. Soon I noticed an improvement. I kept on taking it and today I am a well man. The soreness is all gone from my lungs, I do not have any cough and have gained fifteen pounds."—Frank Hillman.

umn. It is believed that death came instantly and it is certain that the young man wrote every word of the note he left before he fired the shot.

A mass of pillows had been arranged on the floor in the dining room where the deed was committed and it is believed that the young man lay himself down on his left side in preparing for death. The gun was probably held in his left hand and aimed at his heart. It is believed he discharged the gun by reaching to the trigger with a tack puller which was near the body when found. The movement of the body and the shaking of the gun probably made the discharge miss the heart and strike the abdomen.

Below is the note in full which was left by the victim and which is self-explanatory and tells as much as the family knows of the affair.

ing to be in happy thoughts, but it was just the opposite. I know I'm just approaching young manhood, but the wages of sin is death and we all have our time. Mother please wire my sweetheart at once, that's the wish of your dying son. Tell father and all of the rest goodbye. Please wire my sweetheart, Miss Goldie Hashman, Freetown, Ind., Route 2. My suit case is at Columbus, on Seventeenth and Newton. Farewell to all forever.

Mother, if there are any of my friends who want any more of those pieces from the Orinoco factory let them have their choice to get a piece for remembrance.

9:30

I have selected two songs for you to have sung at my funeral. They are as follows, the numbers are 129 and 130, Meet Mother in the Skies. Mother, have this song sung soft as if it was a far-away echo, dying away softly on the last part.

the little world of friends I know. Moreso to my sweetheart, for we were together only last Saturday night. Please wire her at once. I won't tell why I did this, but perhaps Andy can tell you a brief story of the past. I had a reason, but it'll never be known.

Now no doubt all the rest of the family are in good spirits having a pleasant time, but I'm not. May God bless you all, Mother, and farewell to all forever. Now 9:45. Remember the song.
